DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's election of claims 14-24 and transversal of claims 25 and 26 is acknowledged. Applicant traverses because of "lack of serious burden". Applicant is claiming a household appliance dishwasher, in particular, a washing machine or a laundry drier, comprising a handling element.

In order for applicant to receive a quality examination, an examiner trained and skilled in the prior art of household appliances needs to evaluate the meets and bounds of claims in view of the known prior art of that particular class. Simply lumping all the complexities associated with the different inventions into one examination (knowing that the United States Classification system separates them into two distinct classes) fails to provide the quality that the public and applicant expect and deserve from the United States Patent and Trademark Office.

The requirement deemed proper.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 14-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Machado 6,764,321. Regarding claims 14 and 24, Machado discloses in fig. 7 a connector device comprising a first plug-in connector and a second plug-in connector. I

In regard to claims 15-20, it has been held that the recitation that an element is "configured to" perform a function is not a positive limitation but only requires the ability to so perform. It does not constitute a limitation in any patentable sense. In re Hutchison, 69 USPQ 138.
